High-density living in Hong Kong

Inspired by the concept of indigenous family unity, compact but intimate due to the densely populated nature, this is built to symbolise the Hong Kong Interior Design Association. Under the limited space of only 150 sq. ft., approximately 2X4 meters, each spatial component introduces the association to the public while fostering interactive activities between visitors and the interior.

Home-style context

Elements of the house feature domestic space that offer a homely and easy context for visitors. This design with all parts positioned closely perfectly highlights the local living condition and the positive spirit that Hong Kong people all share.

Environmental friendly

This environmentally conscious design applies medium-density fibreboard (MDF) panels that can be dismantled and re-exhibited.

Mobility

Guaranteed with this mobility quality, this house is economical under a tight budget.
